Tel: 01502 563344 : Fax: 01502 582220

We are pleased to provide you with information about the LCSP Register of Remedial Masseurs and Manipulative Therapists and to invite you, if eligible, to take up membership of one of its categories.

The LCSP Register is governed by its own Council of Officers and company law, and is probably the oldest and one of the most respected independent professional bodies representing these therapies. The LCSP Register pledges its support and services to the private practitioner, and the development of the profession.

Advantages of membership are wide reaching. Members are kept in constant touch with the work and activities of the organisation through the Internet and the publication of a quarterly newsletter. A Directory of practitioner-members is published annually and copies are available on request. The Directory is also published on the Internet as part of the Register's website. There are regular courses for continuing professional development (C.P.D.). Practitioner members have to be insured in respect of any claims arising in respect of professional indemnity (malpractice) and public liability through a Master Policy held by the LCSP Register or a comparable policy.

Membership of the LCSP Register provides you with the opportunity to become part of a first-class professional organisation, governed by very capable and qualified practitioners who are dedicated to improving the standards and status of the professions it represents and of the therapists who practise those professions.

Every application for membership will receive careful consideration.

INTRODUCTION

Throughout its long history, the LCSP Register of Remedial Masseurs and Manipulative Therapists (*) has been concerned with the profession of massage and allied therapies and the Register exists to further the professional status and to serve the interests of practitioners engaged in such therapies, particularly those in private practice.

Accepting as the criterion for membership of the LCSP Register, is the therapeutic application of massage in one or other of its forms, all applicants for membership are required to satisfy the Council of the LCSP Register as to their training, qualification and proficiency in an approved sphere of the therapy. The LCSP Register is a professional body conducting, as necessary, examinations and/or interviews for membership, but does not function as a tutorial organisation or qualifying body as such. It requires all applicants for membership to hold an approved qualification or (in the case of Student Members) to be presently undertaking training for acceptable qualifications in the therapies concerned through educational establishments or courses approved by the LCSP Register.

There are four grades of membership open to applicants, as follows:

1. Student Membership

Is open to bona-fide students of the profession who are undergoing training for approved qualifications. Such membership shall carry no designatory letters.

2. Associate Membership

Is open to persons who have successfully completed an approved course of training to the requirement of the Register. These members may use the designatory letters L.C.S.P. (Assoc), after their name.

3. Full Membership

is open to persons who have successfully completed approved training to a standard of proficiency so determined by the Register and who have not less than two years' approved, full-time, or four years' part time, practical experience in the profession, together with evidence of C.P.D. (Continuing professional development.) These members may use the designatory letters L.C.S.P. (Phys).

4. Affiliate Membership

Is available to persons who by virtue of their qualifications have achieved a statutory protection of title in their therapy. These members may use the designatory letters of their external qualification in isolation or in parentheses after the letters L.C.S.P. For example an osteopath may use either D.O. or L.C.S.P.(D.O.) after their name.

Definition of Therapies within the Scope of Membership:

Time has seen the emergence and development of specific therapies and sciences which themselves call for lengthy training and particular applications of knowledge and proficiency – yet, in essence, the basic underlying principle is always the therapeutic dexterity of the trained hands. The Register is concerned only with the assessment and approval of qualifications in the following therapies:

1. Remedial Massage

Practitioners have by virtue of their training and examination, acquired ability and competence in the practice of soft-tissue massage of the human body. Such training requires an understanding of anatomy, physiology and associated sciences; clinical procedures; the principles and practice of massage therapy; hygiene; first-aid, etc.

‘Remedial Massage’ implies that the member has been trained and qualified to the satisfaction of the Council in the therapeutic application of massage, and such training will have provided the member with an understanding of the use of massage as an aid in the treatment of muscular / skeletal conditions, and/or a knowledge of sports related injuries, muscular and joint problems, etc. and the conditions when massage is contra-indicated.

2. Manipulative Therapy

The designation ‘Manipulative Therapist’ implies that the member has undertaken approved training and examination to a higher level and at a more advanced standard than that approved for the designation of ‘Remedial Masseur’ and that such training has been completed in a manner acceptable to the Council of the LCSP Register. The practitioner will have acquired as the result of such training and experience an understanding of, and proficiency in, the application of advanced remedial massage and in soft-tissue and joint manipulative procedures. Such training will in many cases have also included instruction in electro-therapy, and most practitioners of manipulative therapy are able to provide such treatments that may include heat therapy, ultrasonic, interferential, laser, etc.

Members must not describe themselves as ‘manipulative therapists’ until such time as they have completed an approved training and acquired qualification at a level acceptable to the LCSP Register and have been admitted to Full Membership.

3. Osteopathy/Chiropractic/Physiotherapy

The Register considers the practice of osteopathy, chiropractic and physiotherapy as being among the spheres of manipulative therapy practised by members, whilst recognising the distinct philosophy and science of each therapy.

In accordance with the statutory requirement, members describing themselves as 'Osteopaths' or 'Chiropractors' or 'Physiotherapists' in the U.K. are required to be registered with the General Osteopathic Council, the General Chiropractic Council or the Health Professions Council, as appropriate, and to be able to produce evidence of registration on request.

Applicants Please Note: The Council of the LCSP Register draws the attention of all persons applying for membership to the following points:-

4. Other Therapies

In addition to providing treatment which falls within one of the preceding categories approved by the LCSP Register, it may be that some members also practise other therapies (e.g. acupuncture, herbal medicine, homoeopathy, etc.) which are considered outside the sphere of this body insofar as assessment of training, qualification, competence, etc., are concerned. It should be understood therefore that, whilst such therapies are outside the scope of the provision for membership of the LCSP Register, members who are engaged in such other therapies are required to belong also to the professional bodies associated with such therapies where records of training, qualification, etc. are held.

5. 'Doctor'

The use of the title 'Doctor' by any practitioner of the healing arts might generally be taken to imply that the holder possesses a medical doctorate approved by the General Medical Council. Therefore, (with the exception of Doctors of Chiropractic - D.C. - approved by the State Licensing Boards of the U.S.A.) the use of the title 'Doctor' is not acceptable unless the Member holds such medical doctorate, or unless it is made unequivocally clear that the doctorate (e.g. in Science, Philosophy, etc.) is not a medical one.

The following rules have been approved by Council. The LCS Register is governed by its Memorandum and Articles of Association and Company Law. If there should be a conflict between the LCSP Register Rules and the Memorandum etc., the Memorandum etc. take precedence.
